Black Women's Health Imperative's
2022 Midterm Elections Voter Education & Issues Guide

September 2022

To our valued friends & supporters,

For many Black women, 2022 has been one of the most soul-challenging years in recent history. Each day has brought about new hindrances to the sustainability and progression of our community. A seemingly endless pandemic and the shocking reversal of federal protections of our right to access safe abortions have occurred alongside historically high gas prices, food insecurities due to supply chain issues, increasingly high interest rates, rising inflation rates, poor water infrastructure due to zoning and access to clean water funding, and ever-present economic uncertainties. All of which seem to target our most vulnerable in the greatest capacity. While the physical, mental, emotional, and economic toll is immense—and all too familiar—this November, we can make our voices heard at the polls as we vote in those who are invested in the survival of our communities, and vote out those who seem to be working against us.

As our President & CEO, Linda Goler Blount, MPH, has said before, “Black women have navigated oppression in America for centuries. Our humanity, our safety, and our rights are devalued in the workplace, doctor’s offices, classrooms, and our own neighborhoods.” Racially motivated violence, as seen in Buffalo, New York; Southern California; and more recently against the students and teachers at Robb Elementary School in Texas have heartbreakingly proved that there is an urgent need for change, in and across every system.

At the Black Women’s Health Imperative (BWHI), our stated mission is to lead the effort to solve the most pressing health issues that affect Black women and girls in the U.S. Through research and evidence-based strategies, we deliver bold new programs and advocate for health-promoting policies within the workplace. In line with that mission, and with the 2022 midterms approaching, BWHI is releasing: They Can't Break Our Souls! Black Women's Health Imperative's 2022 Midterm Elections Voter Education & Issues Guide.

This guide will provide information on policymakers who are up for national and state elections in your respective areas. This information will also coincide with those who represent the issues and policy pillars we, at BWHI, have championed over our nearly 40 years of existence.

We are also re-releasing an update of our Black Women Vote: National Health Policy Agenda, which aims to provide Black women with a blueprint for change, and deliver a call to action for policymakers, practitioners, academics, and community leaders. You can download a copy here: Black Women Vote: The 2020-2021 National Health Policy Agenda.

This election will be one like no other and will send a clear message about the future of our country. Just this month, Senate Republicans introduced a national bill to ban all late-term abortions usually done in emergency rooms to save the life of the mother. These types of legislative assaults on our rights to live healthy and productive rights will be on the ballot across the country this midterm season.

Black women must rise up and take the lead in setting the country’s direction, as we have historically done so many times before. With our very bodily autonomy at the center of this current political climate, it is time to do what needs to be done. It is our moment to be the heroes of our own story.

Join us in achieving our vision for all Black women to enjoy optimal health in a society that promotes health equity and social justice by registering, representing, and exercising your right to vote.

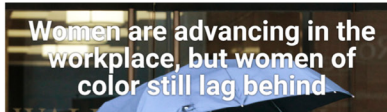

Yours can be the one that makes all the difference.

I Am A RJ Voter – In Our Own Voice Coalition

In Our Own Voice: National Black Women's Reproductive Justice Agenda is a national-state partnership focused on lifting up the voices of Black women leaders at the national and regional levels in our fight to secure reproductive justice for all women, femmes, and girls. Its eight strategic partners are Black Women for Wellness; New Voices for Reproductive Justice; SisterLove, Inc.; SisterReach; SPARK Reproductive Justice NOW; The Afiya Center; Women With A Vision; and the Black Women's Health Imperative. Collectively, we work to support reproductive justice voters.

REPRODUCTIVE

Take the pledge to protect Black women's bodily autonomy today.
And pass this card on to other Black women to take the Reproductive Justice pledge.

Black women and birthing people
WON'T STAND BY
AND ALLOW OUR
REPRODUCTIVE RIGHTS TO BE TAKEN AWAY.

Read the full pledge and sign by visiting:
blackrj.org/blackrjpledge

And pass this card on to other Black women to take the Reproductive Justice pledge.

As we face an attack on our basic human right to bodily autonomy and abortion by a conservative, activist Supreme Court, we implore Black women's organizations and Black individuals to join In Our Own Voices to make it clear: we refuse to let you take away reproductive rights.

We are asking all Reproductive Justice voters like you to pledge to do everything in our power to ensure all Black women and birthing people have the freedom, resources, and power they need to assert agency over their own bodies and ensure that their families can thrive.

We know that we win the battle for civil rights when we listen to and trust Black women. Let's join together now to protect our rights.

For Black women, reproductive health (Repro) advocacy ensures complete physical, mental, and social well-being, not merely the absence of disease in all matters relating to the reproductive system. Reproductive rights center on maintaining or protecting the legal right to contraception, abortion, fertility treatment, and reproductive health. To help provide Black women the critical information they need to fight for their own reproductive justice, we also invite you to visit our <https://reprojustice.bwhi.org> resource page.

We're Advocating For Reproductive Health, Rights, And Justice Now

Will You Join Us?

For Black women, Reproductive health (Repro) advocacy ensures complete physical, mental, and social well-being, not merely the absence of disease in all matters relating to the reproductive system. Reproductive rights center on maintaining or protecting the legal right to contraception, abortion, fertility treatment, and reproductive health. While also ensuring access to information about one's reproductive body. In general, reproductive rights secure people's agency - their right to decide their capacities to reproduce or not.

BWHI defines Reproductive Justice as an all-encompassing health movement to eliminate all barriers to self-agency.

Our work protects the right to self-govern one's body, sexuality, gender, sexual pleasure, and reproduction preferences. The main pillars of Reproductive Justice are:

- The right to have a child.
- The right to not have a child.
- The right to raise and nurture our children in a safe and healthy environment.

In short, BWHI champions the whole woman, girl, femme, and gender non-confirming person through a preventative, affirming, and holistic approach.
